WHICH BOOK TO READ, IF YOU ARE

A resident: XV The Residents' Handbook. Then XXIII The Grand River Dollar; XVII Records, Privacy and Access.

An officer of the Nation: XIX The Officers' Guide; X The Constitution of Offices. Then XVIII The Forms; the book of your own office.

A partner, a bank, a border or police officer: XXVI The Verifier's Handbook. Then XVI Passports and Credentials; XXXVI The Partner's Handbook.

A Magistrate, or a party before the Court: XIV The Bench Book. Then XI The Gazette and Law-Making.

A financial institution or a supporter: XXIII The Grand River Dollar. Then XXII The Bank and the Treasury.

A journalist: I The Nation and its Instruments. Then XXXI The Press; XVII Records, Privacy and Access.

An expert, auditor or critic: I, then the book of your field. Then each book's last section: how it compares, and the questions an expert would ask.

A designer or printer: XXXIII The Nation's Brand; XXXIV The Style Book. Then XXXV Mohawk's Printer.

Read Book I first. Every other book assumes it.

HOW A BOOK IS CITED AND CHECKED

Every book has one number. Its Mohawk Publication Number, in the Nation's own three blocks, on page 2 and on its page at the Register. The ISBN of a printed edition sits beside it.

Every edition has a fingerprint. Its SHA-256 hash, on page 2 and on the Nation's Ledger. A copy that differs is not the published edition.

To cite a book: its title, the edition, Mohawk Nation of Grand River Secretariat, the year, and its number.

Every book shares the same parts: a page 2 that names its edition, its number and its posters; worked examples; the standards it follows; how it compares with the world's leaders; and the questions an expert or a critic would ask, answered.

All of them are at mohawkuniversity.org/Register/national-books/, each with its number and its fingerprint, to read and to download.
